1. Before hearing this sermon, what was your general attitude toward or experience with the book of Revelation?
2. If you could have the definitive, 100% correct answer to just one mystery or question about the future, what would you want to know?
3. Adam talked about five ways people often view Revelation: a Crystal Ball, a Newspaper Companion, a Blueprint, a Museum Relic, and a Discipleship Compass.
4. Look at Revelation 1:3. God promises a blessing to those who listen and obey what it says. Since Revelation is famous for its wild visions, why do you think obedience is highlighted so early on? What does it look like to "obey" a book like Revelation?
5. The Greek word Apokalypsis means an "unveiling" or pulling back a curtain to see what is happening behind the scenes. How does viewing the book as a glimpse behind the curtain change your expectations for this study compared to viewing it as a timeline of disaster?
6. We recently looked at the buckets of belief in the Undivided series, distinguishing between dogma, doctrine, conviction, and preference. When studying apocalyptic imagery or eschatology (end times), how do we model theological humility without compromising on gospel truth?
